FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

SUNDAY, April 26, 1868. The gold market was on the whole steady last week, and the ductuations were from 138% to 140%, the latest quotation on Saturday being 139% a 139%, the latest quotation on Saturday being 139% bush There was a moderate amount of speculative bus ness transacted, and more disposition was shown to operate for a rise than usual of late. The demand for customs duties at the port aggregated $2,255,530, and the exports of specie and builion amounted to $1,867,291. Government securities experienced ady improvement under a good investment and a derate speculative demand, and the disbursement of the May interest on the public debt will undoubtedly greatly quicken the investment inquiry. The gradual return of monetary ease has naturally assisted the reaction from the depression produced by the recent stringency, but the quotations for governrailway and miscellaneous shares. It seems little less than a reproach to us that five-twenties should ols, which pay only half the interest that the former hear, are quoted at 93% a 93%, or more than twenty-three per cent higher. The interest to be disbursed in May will, it is now estimated, amount to nearly wenty-seven millions, the conversions of seven-thirty otes into bonds having been rather heavy during month, and probably nearly half of this total will reinvested in United States stocks. The inquiry during the last few days has been mainly for the ster issues of five-twenties, of which the ew 1865's are relatively the cheapest, the corued interest on them being precisely the same as on the issue of 1867. In like manner the old bonds of 1866 are 1% below those of 1862, owing to a preferce for the latter abroad; but ultimately prices for nonds of uniform value will be equalized. The supply of securities in the street is not large, and the nal debt having long since reached its maxinum, a process of absorption is going forward which United States stocks. The Sub-Treasury bought a larger amount than usual of seven-thirty notes previous decline continued to progress up to the close, e most marked improvement being in New York Sentral and Rock Island. Erie was alternately firm and heavy, and it did not fully sympathize with the improvement in the general market, the street meanwhile treating it with great caution. The radical scheme for adding a hundred millions of national bank notes to the circulation of the country napires the bulls with surage, and strong efforts will doubtless be made to secure the success of this in order that the threatened crash on the Stock Exchange may be postponed for two or three years to ome. The breakdown will, of course, be all the hore severe in the end, but in the meantime every ator expects to reap his harvest. At the close ast evening the quotations for the railway and mis-sellaneous shares were as follows:—Pacific Mail, 93% 94; Ohio and Mississippi, 31% a 31%; Canton Company, 48 % a 49; Quickstiver, 26 % a 27; Western Union degraph, 37 a 3714; New York Central, 127 a 12714; Erie, 71% a 71%; Hudson River, 135% a 136; Reading, 90% a 90%; Michigan Southern, 89% a 90; Cleveland and Pittsburg, 81 1/4 a 82; Cleveland and Toledo, 104 1/4 a 105; Rock Island, 94% a 94%; Northwestern preferred, 74% a 75; Fort Wayne, 102% a 103.

porrowers on stock collaterals at seven per cent, with oot a few loans to first class borrowers at six, the cipal dealers in government securities being offered all the capital they required at this rate. The drain of currency from the interior is gradually reasing, and after the present week the loanable purces of the banks will have so far increased onetary ease will be assured. The applications for discounts were on a very moderate scale, and the banks took the best grade of their customers' rould have had, in most instances, to submit to 8 a 9 per cent. The statement of the associated banks of his city for the week ending yesterday reflects the improving aspect of affairs. The legal tender notes we increased $3,033,097 since the previous return, and the circulation $9,043, while the loans have decreased $1,506,369, the specie $1,842,005, and the deposits $1,525,034, from which it follows that the banks, collectively, are $1,566,000 stronger in their

their reserves which is not uncalled for. The banks in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Milwankee, New Orleans, Cincinnati, keep a reserve of twenty-five per cent against their liabilities in deposits and circulation, while the na-tional banks eisewhere are required to keep a reserve of fifteen per cent; and in each case two-fifths of the reserve must be in piain legal tender notes and in three per cent certificates and composes, however, specie and compound in-terest notes are useless as a part of the reserve, for there is probably not a bank in this city that would not go into liquidation in preference to paying out specie and compound notes at par, and Congress should direct its attention to this feature of the case. The importance of maintaining a good effective re-serve by the banks is obvious, and the Comptroller of the Currency will do well to publish a periodical matement of the banks which are delinquent in complying with all the provisions of the law in this respect. An abstract of the returns of all the national banks for the quarter ending on the lat inst. has already been given to the public, and in the aggregate the reserves exceed the legal requirements, but it would be interesting to learn what institutions among their number have been found wanting. According to the returns for the quarter ending October 1, 1886, fifty-five banks were deficient in their reserves, although the average reserve of all the banks was about twenty-four per cent of the liabilities. This seemed ample enough, considering that out of the seventeen cities we have named only afteen per cent is required. The Comptroller of the Currency should see to it that all the banks are examined into at regular intervals, as provided by law, and that all the provisions of the Na-

Honal Currency act are enforced. The foreign exchange market was strong during the early part of the week, and the lending drawers advanced their rate for sterling at sixty days to 110%, and prime bills were sold at 110. The advance ap-pears to have been mainly due to speculative sauses, the foreign bankers having bought up the floating supply of bills in anticipation of an enlarged demand growing in part out of the dis-bursement of the May interest on the public debt. It is estimated that at least half the amount of interest drawn by parties residing abroad will be reinvested in bonds, the remainder being remitted in each. The supply of cotton bills is limited. The receipts of the staple at all the ports during the week were a little under 30,000 bales, making an aggregate since the 1st of September, 1867, of 2,044,400 bales, against 1,643,500 bales for the corresponding period in 1868-7. The exports from all the ports during the week aggregated 41,400 bales, making 1,427,000 since the 1st of September, against 1,145,000 in the corresponding period last year. The stocks at all the ports at present are much smaller than they were at the same date in 1867—namely, 260,700 bales, against 446,100. The stocks abroad are also much less. At Liverpool on the 11th inst. there were only 850,550 bales of cotton of all countries, against 712,340 at the same time last year. There were 185,000 bales of American affoat in addition, against 160,000 last year, and 204,120 bales of Indian, against 365,000 bales a year ago. At the close bankers' bills on England at sixty days were quoted at 109% a 110; at three days, 110%; BLEACHED MUSLINS.—New York Mills, 44, 29c. a commercial bills, 100 a 109 5. ## THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

The past week was characterized by great dulness during the greater part of the time, during which the market was somewhat irregular, while prices were in some cases lower; but a general and possibly a material decline in prices was prevented by the tenor of the cable cotton news, which towards the close of the week was of a very favorable character and caused an active and buoyant market for cotton here, eventuating in an important enhancement of prices, and thus exerting a considerable influence on the market for goods, checking the downward tendency and causing some improvement in certain fabrics. But this improvement occurred at too late a day in the week to have much effect upon the volfabrics. But this improvement occurred at too late a day in the week to have much effect upon the volume of business, which was small. The jobbers evince but little inclination to lay in supplies at present prices, especially as the spring season is nearly over, and there is little probability of any lengthened period of activity before the fail trade shall have set in. The demand for goods was very light up to the close of the week, and the more buoyant tone of the market was a direct consequence of the excitement and advance of cotton, and did not result from any increase in the demand, a dearth of supplies or from any cause inherent in the market itself. Hence the present and prospective of the market for cotton goods would seem to be and to promise to be controlled by the cotton speculators rather than demand and supply. There is therefore no possibility of predicting with any degree of certainty the probable tendency of the goods market forty-eight hours hence. Should cotton continue to advance there is every probability that pre-ent prices of goods will be sustained, even though they do not materially advance, which they surely would were there any demand of moment. But, per contra, should the speculation in cotton soon spend its force and a reaction set in which should carry prices down to a much lower basis there would as surely be a grand tumble-down in prices of goods. At the present withing, however, there would seem to be no probability of any very speedy reduction of prices, all the probabilities seeming to favor a continued onward and upward course. We quote:—

BUILDING MATERIALS.

Taken in connection with the great development of this city in the matter of new buildings the prices of the several articles used in their construction becomes a matter not alone of importance to those most directly affected by their fluctuations, but of interest ing examination to all. The market, for these at present exhibits a healthful activity, prices being firm and without much change for some weeks past.

Nearly all the articles in the building line are in steady demand, but not in excess of the supply. The stormy weather which has prevailed so late in the season this year has operated to retard the arrival of the new lumber which but awaits opportunity in the opening of navigation to come in, when some change may be expected. Work at the quarries is said to be good, and all the indications at present are of a steady demand for stone and commensurate supply. The same may be said of other materials. Below are yesterday's quotations:—

REAL ESTATE MATTERS.

Review of Operations During the Past Week and Prospects of the Coming.

The week just closed has, notwithstanding the adverse influences of wind and weather, been but little behind the preceding one in the extent of the operations in real estate. Tuesday and Thursday, as all through the season, were especially heavy days at the Exchange, New York, and City Salesroom, is still in great favor with speculators, but is not to is still in great layor with speciators, but is not to be left without a rival in their regard. Westchester, since the problem of rapid transit thither from the lower end of New York Island appears to approach a solution in the passage of the Underground Raliforad bill, comes into the field with its attractions to divide the favor of speculators and those seeking homesteads. Some choice property located up there, within easy access at present and prospectively at a very convenient distance from the centres of business, is up for sale. Among the rest the property known as the "Leggett Homestead" is announced to be sold on Tuesday next by Muller, Wilkins & Co. It consists of about fifty-five acres of land situated on the line of the Southern Boulevard, in the town of West Farms, bounded by the Boulevard, the Hunt's Point road and Leggett's creek. Its present owner is Mr. Edward J. Young, and it will be sold in lots of one or more acres as purchasers may desire. There can be little doubt that with the establishment of quick communication from end to end of the island, which now seems near accomplishment, the natural extension of the city northerly will cause a rapid appreciation of property in Westchester county which is likely next year to prove a favorite field of speculation. Below is a general report of the sales during the past week, showing the relative amount of New York and Brooklyn improved and unimproved propert y sold each day, with the total amount of be left without a rival in their regard. atmosphere which prevailed yesterday had the effect of releasing many hundred housebound women and children, and once in the open air what more inviting place of recreation could suggest itself than the new and rapidly growing park. Hither, then, the people wended their way all day long, and strolled about the well kept loads and bridle paths, viewing the broad expanse of scenery from the numerous fine points of observation which abound, or speculating on the newly budding beauties of the grounds, as they inspected muntely each undulating green, grassy, mound and hillock, and watched the ripple of the waters on the imprevised miniature lakelets which here and there make their appearance, charmed with the work both present and prospective.

There could not have been less than twelve thousand pedestrians at the Park yesterday, and about a thousand vehicles of every description. All classes of people were to be seen there, the lawyer, banker, physician, clerk, tradesman, mechanic and laborer, all jostled along side by side, each venting his opinion as to this or that striking point of beauty as some hitherto unseen feature of the grounds presented itself to, the eye. That all were satisfied with what has already been accomplished there can be no doubt, though much labor and money must y-t be expended ere the citizens of the City of Churches can fully realize the fact, that in the possession of Prospect Park, they may boast a very serious rival to that pleasure garden of the metropolis—Central Park.

A number of small trees and some fine plants have been planted here within the last month. There is a large force on the main road or drive, which latter is extending rapidly towards completion.

ESCAPE OF PRISONERS .- Two prisoners, George Scott and James Costello, escaped from the Hudso county jail on Priday night. The former was incar-cerated on a charge of burgiary, and the latter awaited trial for passing counterfeit afty cent stamps. It is supposed that they swung themselves to the ground by the aid of their bed clothing, which they tied to lengths. Some reform in needed in this prison, as several prisoners have escaped therefrom within the past year. No trace has been found of the fugitives.

ALLEGED AFTEMPT TO DEFRAUD THE GOVERNent.-A few days ago officer Van Nortwick seized dent.—A few days ago officer van Nortwick seized a canal boat in this city for attempting as alleged, to defraud the revenue. The boat contained 1,000 petroleum barreis. The supposition is that those parteis were carried to New York, empired of their contents without the internal revenue stamp being effaced, in order that they might be again refilled and ransported to New York without being taxed. The boat is now in the custody of the United States beputy Marshai. The fine in such cases is said to be 110 for each barrel.

SENATOR YATES, OF ILLINOIS.

ddress to the People of His State-A ... unly

Address to the People of His State—A ..., anly and Mouraful" Apology.

Washington, D. C., April 21, 1863.

To the People of Illinois:—
I have seen various articles in Illinois papers reflecting on my conduct. Their criticisms are in some respects just and deserved. Such exaggerations of my faults as they contain, result, I am sure, not wholly from ill will toward me, but from justifiable aixiety that our State shail be properly represented in the United States Senate.

I could show by the records that I have been absent from the impeachment trial but a small portion of the time. It commenced on March, just fifty days ago to-day. I was absent from the trial only six of those fifty days. I was present on every day, and voted on every question submitted to the Senate. I could show that I have not been a constant drinker, and prove that my yielding to temptation to use stimulants has been periodical, and after long and exhaustive labors. I could show that I have not been a constant drinker, and prove that my yielding to temptation to use stimulants has been periodical, and after long and exhaustive labors. I could show that I have never appeared in the Senate I have for the most of the time performed my dury; but I waive all mere technical advantage which I might have in a controversy as to my conduct.

I write you, not to justify, but to waive all defence, and frankly confess, to you the weakness which, at times, has borne me down, and which was calculated to bring discredit on my State and myself. It is my nature to be frank, and especially do I owe it to you, who have showered favors and honors upon me, to be so now. I will not attempt justification or excuse, especially when I have so often publicly said that men holding public trusts should be sober men.

During twenty-seven years of political service—with the exception of ten of those years when I totally abstained—I have often yielded to temptation, and as often have suffered the pangs of unuterable remorse. I can say that, in a certain sense, my sin has bee

To those whose affection for me has atther to survived the shock of repeated disappointments I say, do not conceal from yourselves or longer attempt to sheld me from deserved censure. I accept it as a just punishment and shall not murmur. Those who find in my misiortunes occasion to congratulate themselves upon the verification of their prophecies of evil concerning me and a justification for having opposed me may not finally realize the wish which fathered their thoughts. As to my enmies and those who desire myru in and consequent resignation in order to the elevation of some one eise to the place which I hold at your hands—and I hope they are few—they have my pity for the ignobleness of their purpose and my defiance of their schemes.

But to you, iellow citizens, I do apologize without reserve or defence. I do not ask the divine ruling in one of the oldest recorded trials, viz.—"Let him that is without sin cast the irrat stone." I make no comparison between myself and other men in the country wno drink more than I can or have done, and with less disturbance of their nervous organization than I have. I do not wish, in saying this, to seem invidious or in the attitude of making a special plea in my own behalf. "To err is human; to forgive divine."

I crave only such an exercise of the divine attribute as the enlightened judgment of my fellow-citizens can permit them to vouchsafe to me. I can trutifully aver that no man has a keener approbation of duty, a live ler pride in the honor of lilhous or a deeper sense of gratitude toward those who have honored him than I nave. I was in my humble way true to the country during the late rehellous struggle, and throughout a long public life against bitter persecutions, and in learful minorities, not withstanding all my faults, thave constantly, unvaryingly and never have been the advocate of drinking; for, although alcohol may be useful as a medicine and in some other respects, yet it kills more than it cares, and is much more productive of misery than of benefit to meani SHAXSPEARE'S NAMS.—About the proper mode of spelling Shakspeare's name there has always been great dispute. A Phimadelphian has a chart giving 1,000 different ways of spelling the name of the great dramatist, and accompanied with the remark that as biographers disagree as to the proper orthography of name one of the 1,000 ways is probably correct.
